What is the MA SHRAB?

The Massachusetts State Historical Records Advisory Board (MA SHRAB) is the central advisory body for historical records coordination in the Commonwealth of Massachusetts. A program within the Massachusetts Secretary of State’s Office, the MA SHRAB provides guidance and support to institutions, organizations, and repositories in our state that steward and manage historical records. The MA SHRAB facilitates information sharing and cooperation among historical records repositories, makes available trainings on archival topics, and administers programs that assist in preserving and providing access to archival materials. The MA SHRAB serves as the state-level review body for grant proposals submitted to the National Historical Records and Publications Commission (NHPRC). The activities that the MA SHRAB undertakes are supported through funding from NHPRC. The program provides critical assistance to small and medium-sized Massachusetts repositories that administer collections of 500 linear feet or less.
